

July 2026

Dear Parent/Carer

In assembly this morning I shared with the year group the overview of their performance and conduct throughout the formal mocks. Their attitude and focus during the formal mock window has been exemplary. They have risen to the occasion and impressed us all with their maturity. Despite the conditions in the exam halls, and classrooms after school, the majority of the year group stayed throughout the week for revision sessions. Your child should share their results sheet with you this evening and results will also be available on your child's end of year report, alongside end of Y11 predictions, which will be issued in the final week of term.

There were many positives, and as always room for improvement for individual students across multiple subject areas. My message to the year group was positive and aspirational; I told them that we have one year remaining to push ourselves and try to achieve something truly remarkable as a year group.

I have told the cohort that it is entirely possible, and something we do regularly as teachers, for them to add an entire grade to their current performance between now and the beginning of their summer exam window.

For Year 11, I believe they will go far if they commit themselves to the below:

- Focus
- Attitude
- Revision

I noticed many students begin to talk about their next steps and I have taken part in these discussions with them, with many planned to continue throughout this week and next. I know that these conversations will continue at home, centred around how to support your child best in achieving their target grades for next year.

Yours sincerely

Mr H Mann
